DOMESTIC AFFAIRS.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT WITH THE PAH-UTES.

Harvard Wins the University Race over Columbia—A Wonderful Base Ball Game—Half-holiday Movement in New York, Etc., Etc., Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, June 27.—[illegible]

Stewart's Body.

NEW YORK, June 27.—A paper here publishes this morning a remarkable story of the search for the Stewart grave robbers. It covers the tracing of Mike Reilly to the West. The negotiations conducted by the thieves through Gen. Patrick H. Jones, with the representative of Judge Hilton, embracing numerous interviews by which it appeared that several prominent persons were connected with efforts for its recovery, and the travel of the body from New Jersey to an embalmer, thence to Montreal in care of the "woman in black," and a year afterward to a secret place of deposit near Mount Vernon, Westchester Co.

The New York Mining Stock Market.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The Post's financial article says: Transactions at the Mining Exchange during the last week amounted to 152,384 shares. The speculations are chiefly confined to low priced stocks of unproductive or worthless lines. The three best mines on the market are Standard, Ontario and Homestake. The transactions amounted to less than ten thousand shares. The stocks are held, however, by strong people, who keep them for their dividends. Cheap stocks are made active for the purpose of speculation and the ignorant unwary buy largely of them as they would buy lottery tickets.

A Close Base Ball Game.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 26.—One of the most remarkable games of base ball on record, took place in this city this afternoon, between the Eclipse, of Louisville and Akrons of Ohio. Nineteen innings were played. On the eighth the score stood 2 to 2, and the clubs played 11 more innings without either making a run—nightfall compelled them to cease playing. The clubs will try it on Monday.

Harvard Wins.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 27.—Harvard beat the Columbia crew by three lengths in the four mile race.

Harvard's time, 21:15; Columbia's, [illegible] seconds slower.

Eldridge, of the Columbia crew, fainted from excitement and exhaustion when the race ended and has been semi-conscious ever since. His condition is not alarming.

Garfield and Grant.

LONG BRANCH, June 27.—The president and some of the cabinet left for Washington and will return Friday. Gen. Grant passed the party on the way to New York, and saluted the president's [illegible] son, who saluted the general.

Confident and Hungry.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Griscom still holds out. He lost a quarter of a pound today [illegible] the [illegible] days of his fast. He feels confident and hungry.

Front Doors, Probably.

ST. LOUIS, June 27.—All gambling houses in the city are closed under the new law.

Death of Moses Titcomb.

BOSTON, June 27.—Moses Titcomb, superintendent [illegible] of the U. S. senate for over a quarter of a century, died this morning at Franklin Falls, New Hampshire, aged 80. [illegible] Calhoun in his last sickness, and [illegible] with his own hands the body of Henry Clay in Washington in 1852.

Severe Storm.

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—A very severe storm visited [illegible] today. Rain very heavy, hailstones [illegible].

A little son of George Terry, while [illegible] watching the storm was killed by lightning [illegible].

Personal.

LONG BRANCH, June 26.—President Garfield attended the Episcopal church this morning. The president passed a greater part of the day with his wife in the hotel.

The president, Secretary Hunt and the postmaster general dined with John Hoey. The secretary and postmaster general were for a time the guests of the [illegible].

The Pah-Ute War.

DENVER, June 27.—The Dolores News of June 25th corroborates the previous accounts of the Indian fight, except as follows: It places the number of whites engaged in the Indian fight in Grand valley at eighteen. It says that the first day, J. H. Eskridge, James Hall and David Willis were cut off and surrounded by Indians, whom they fought hand-to-hand, although outnumbered ten to one, and Willis was killed and Hall seriously wounded. Eskridge had his hat riddled with bullets and his scalp covered with wounds caused by grazing bullets, and received a wound in the ankle, which will have to be amputated. Eight of the eighteen whites were missing on the evening of the first day. One of them, John Bean, was since found fatally wounded. The other seven are probably killed, although they may have escaped to the Mormon fort in Grand valley. The missing are Jack Galloway, H. H. Nelson, Thomas Click, T. C. Taylor and two young men. D. C. Taylor, our informant, started for Frisco. The Indians had received reinforcements and have several hundred warriors in the field of battle. A hundred men leave Frisco to-day with the avowed intention to rescue the survivors and avenge both of those killed or fall where they fell.

Lieutenant Wm. May, displeased with the action taken, left the main party with his squad. Their whereabouts is unknown. Horses, guns and ammunition are scarce but the neighboring towns will aid Frisco. No need of blue clothes. Party gone to fight and not to subdue.

Suicide of an Ex-Preacher.

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—The body found here Friday in the river is Rev. Sidney M. Stray, who was expelled from the ministry by the Presbytery at Glen's Falls, N. Y., on the 14th inst., for shooting his wife some time ago at Lake George, where he was pastor of a fashionable church. He confessed adultery. He lived in Leavenworth lately, keeping books. He feared legal punishment, was morbid and despondent, and a plunge in the river ended his troubles here.

Damaging Storms in Kansas.

WICHITA, June 27.—One of the heaviest rain and wind storms ever known accompanied by hail, passed over this section last Friday night. Five inches of water fell during the night and reports which have since come in say that a section of the country ten miles wide and twenty long was flooded. Thousands of acres of wheat, corn and oats were cut down level with the ground. Prairie grass was mown clean and orchards stripped of their fruit. Wheat just stacked was soaked through and through. Many buildings were seriously injured. Only one death is reported, that of E. Pendergast, who was killed by lightning while standing at a window of his house. Another storm, nearly as severe, swept over about the same section Saturday night and did considerable additional damage.

Murder and Robbery.

JACKSON, Cal., June 27.—About 3 o'clock Saturday morning, Ezra de Garmo was murdered in a Grass valley hydraulic mining claim near Volcano. He was watchman on the claim and was [illegible] with a shotgun. The body was found lying on the sluice boxes penetrated by two balls. Both barrels of his gun were discharged. The robbers cleaned up some sixty feet of the boxes, but how much amalgam they obtained is unknown. Four men have been arrested on suspicion.

WASHINGTON CITY.

A Colored Candidate for the Liberian Mission

WASHINGTON, June 27.—It is reported that John H. Smyth, U. S. minister and consul general to Liberia, is to be recalled. An effort is making to have appointed as Smyth's successor Frederick G. Barbadoes, a prominent colored citizen of California, who has lived in Washington during the last few years. Barbadoes is a man of good ability, and his appointment to a diplomatic position has been recommended by nearly all the Massachusetts members of congress and by Governor Long and other prominent citizens of that state. His appointment is also recommended by ex-Senator Bruce and many prominent colored citizens of the United States.

The Treasury Muddle.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Pitney says that the story that he will tell the grand jury all he knows of the treasury ring, is entirely untrue. He would be a fool to do such a thing as it would result in all the detriment of himself and others. He evidently believes that he has been made a victim and talks as though others were deeper in the ring than he. There certainly will be a congressional investigation of these matters. Rumors are current that important records in the department relating to [illegible] and other business [illegible] missing.

Whose Comet Is It?

WASHINGTON, June 27.—French papers have a dispatch from the emperor of Brazil, May 24th, [illegible]. Astronomers here [illegible]

THE TURF.

Maud S on the Track.

Easy Arithmetic.

[Shoe and Leather Reporter.]

A gentleman in the New York swamp met a rather uncertain acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I'm a little short, and would like to ask you a conundrum in mental arithmetic." "Proceed," observed the gentleman. "Well," said the "short" man, "suppose you had $10 in your pocket and I should ask you for $5, how much would remain?" "Ten dollars," was the prompt answer.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

In Hard Luck.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—[illegible]

A Tragic Affair.

The Wrecked Vessel.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—[illegible] returned from the Farallones, having [illegible] the captain and crew of the [illegible]. The [illegible] is rapidly breaking up, and will be a total loss. Insurance on the cargo [illegible] San Francisco amounts to $30,000.

From Hongkong.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—The steamer [illegible], from Hongkong via Yokohama, arrived to-day.

Fire in a California Mine.

GRASS VALLEY, June 27.—A fire this P. M. at the Sebastopol mine works entirely destroyed them, and it is considered that the engines and boiler are ruined. The pumps in the shaft are lost for the present. Timbers in the incline are burning which will necessitate sinking a new shaft before work can be resumed. Origin of the fire unknown. Four men down the shaft made their escape through a drain tunnel. Loss $12,000.

ARIZONA.

Explosion at Tucson.

TUCSON, June 27.—L. Zeckendorf's powder house blew up this evening with a terrific explosion, breaking nearly every window in town. It is reported that the county hospital is nearly demolished. No particulars.

WESTERN WASHINGTON.

Items from Olympia.

OLYMPIA, W. T., June 27.—Mrs. B. Howard, the well known proprietress of the Pacific hotel, was stricken with paralysis yesterday and now lies in a critical condition.

At Mud bay yesterday, Guy, step-son of Daniel Varner, fell into the water while fishing, and John Olds, a workman at Varner's camp, and late of Jackson, Michigan, sprang to his assistance, and kept him above water until help arrived and a pole was reached. The boy climbed it and was drawn out, but Olds sank immediately and was drowned.

W. F. Crosby, agent for Christy & Wise, of San Francisco, will ship sixty thousand pounds of wool by the Idaho.

Immense preparations are being made for the fourth of July celebration.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Savage Assault at Cascade Locks.

CASCADE LOCKS, June 27.—At 10 o'clock this evening Jack Matthews went into Borthwick & [illegible]'s place of business and asked for [illegible]. Upon Borthwick's refusing, Matthews became very abusive and Borthwick attempted to put him out, when Mathews drew a knife and cut him twice in the side. Both wounds are dangerous.

MORMON AMBITION.

BOSTON, June 27.—Several months ago by authority of the war and interior departments, [illegible] Mormons [illegible] This infamous sect [illegible] element in the [illegible]. All their actions since they settled by the shores of the Great Salt Lake have been governed by comprehensive and deep laid schemes some day to establish a grand empire of their own, independent of the national union. This scheme they are carrying out with a cunning and comprehensiveness worthy of anything that has ever distinguished Jesuitism. They have not concentrated in one region, but have spread out over the widest possible territory. Therefore, an invading army would have to distribute itself over a wide extent of ground. All the region over which they have spread they are covering with a mesh like warp of ranches and farms, and are winding this up with the woof of their rapidly multiplying brood. Polygamy is a part of their scheme, the best instrument they could devise speedily to secure population to cover land with their own progeny. Mormon women, far from finding their position burdensome, as has been frequently asserted, really glory in it. Wives vie with each other to see which will bear the most children.

Prof. Robertson Smith.

[Springfield Republican.]

The suspension of Prof. Robertson Smith from his chair in Aberdeen University by the Free church general assembly only fulfills the expectation aroused by last year's action in regard to his heresies. These are summed up in the treatment of the Hebrew sacred books as subjects of historical criticism like other books; and the occasion for discipline was given not merely by Prof. Smith's critical articles in the Encyclopedia Britannica, but by his public lectures in Edinburg and Glasgow. The action of the general assembly is certainly justified under the Presbyterian articles of faith, and indeed they would stultify themselves if they failed to arraign such liberalism as Prof. Smith's. The small majority by which the suspension was carried, however, shows that the thing really required of the Free church is not so much to discipline its heretics as to modify the formulas to which it requires assent, seeing that the scholarship of the age has rendered them untenable, and lessened the number of their thick-and-thin adherents in its very body. A very large minority of the general assembly evidently did not choose to act as inquisitors and persecutors, and this feeling outside the assembly is inevitably much stronger.

The Responsibility for Mary and her Lamb.

[Springfield (Mass.) Republican.]

When shall we ever see the last in "notes and queries" columns of those old, old strays, "Consistency's a jewel," "Though lost to sight, to memory dear," who wrote "Rock me to sleep, mother," and who else wrote "Mary had a little lamb?" Every now and then we see these last mentioned verses attributed to one John Roulstone, who usually figures as a young Harvard student who died shortly after graduation—as he did—but who now appears as "proprietor of a popular riding school, 60 years ago." This is false in both variations. Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale wrote the rhymes when she lived in or near Boston, not quite half a century ago and a few years ago, when the Roulstone story came up freshly, Mrs. Hale wrote a letter to the Republican narrating all the circumstances connected with its writing, the first publication, etc. The verses, like most of those which people get up disputes over, are of no sort of consequence; almost anybody might have written them, but Mrs. Hale felt it a hardship to be cheated out of her fame, and not even a lifetime of editing Godey's Lady's Book is so good a title to immortality as that nursery rhyme.

Baroness Coutts and her Husband.

(London Correspondence Boston Herald.)

The Baroness Burdett-Coutts has got quite over her virgin blushes, and having, at the ripe age of 70 summers, tasted the sweetness of love's young dream, she and her juvenile husband have embarked on a long course of parties. She gives a fashionable dinner every other day, and people of title are as numerous on her visiting list as cent pieces on a collection plate when an appeal is made for the distressed heathen. One thing, however, is remarkable about these dinners. No young women go to them. Boyish Mr. Burdett-Coutts Bartlett is not nearly [illegible] yet, so the baroness wisely keeps temptation out of his way. For all his slenderness, the poor fellow begins to wear a jaded, tired, worn and weary look, which seems to hint of the possibility of his golden world palling upon him. Whatever he thought before he mated with a fortune, part of a bank, and a half a county of acres, there can be no doubt that today Mr. Burdett-Coutts Bartlett is convinced of the stiffness, as well as the wisdom, of the barrier in the [illegible] of consanguinity, that a man shall not be allowed to marry his grandmother.

The Cost of a Boss.

[New York Times.]

The republican party is learning how much it costs to keep a "boss." With the senate of the United States suddenly given over to the opposition, with its party badly divided in this state, with the possibility of a loss of the state legislature in the fall elections, and a very serious check to the supremacy of the party throughout the state, republicans are finding that the [illegible] which they have permitted Mr. Conkling to play is a fearfully expensive one for the party. [illegible] to accomplished, at best, without much sacrifice.

Probably a Hoax.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The Times has a dispatch from Batavia, N. Y., [illegible] over the discovery of what are believed to be the remains of William Morgan, [illegible] the secrets of the Free Masons [illegible] before the work was given to the public.

The Shoestring District Man.

[From the Vicksburg Herald.]

The Herald is in favor of Chalmers staying at home, because it is opposed to the "practices" by which he claims to have been elected. Such practices are nothing but evil, and they must not be indorsed by the people.

LITERARY NOTES.

Julia Ward Howe lived within a few miles of Hawthorne for many years, yet saw the great novelist only twice. [illegible] of these meetings she writes in the [illegible] of June 18th. There is a portrait of Hawthorne in the same number.

Among the articles in the 12th volume of the Encyclopedia Britannica are "Thomas Hood," by Lord Houghton; "Hosea," by Prof. Robertson Smith, "Hymns," by Lord Selborne, and "American Indians," by A. H. Keane and H. Gannett.

In the Antiquary for May there is an article entitled "One of Shakespeare's Books," in which it is claimed that the great poet's reference to the habits and characteristics of dogs were borrowed from Fleming's translation of Dr. Caius' "De Canibus Britannicis," published in 1576 under the title "Of English Dogges."

Chinese authors complain that their works are not only printed in Japan, but the cheap editions of them are imported into China and sold to their detriment. Chinese authors have perpetual copyright in their productions, and any infringement of authors rights is punished by receiving a hundred blows and being transported for three years.

What is believed to be the oldest English printed ballad in existence has just come into the possession of the British Museum. It formed the lining of the inside of the wooden cover of an old folio volume, which, with a great many more, had for a long time [illegible] a large house [illegible] in Dorset. It is in black letter, quarto, and was printed in London in 1540, by Richard Fawkes. There are four leaves with a woodcut and it is in a wonderfully good state of preservation. The ballad is by Skelton, and relates to the battle of Flodden.

[Detroit Free Press.]

"I take pleasure an' satisfaction," said the president as he held up a [illegible], "to inform you dat a worthy citizen of Detroit, who does not want to have his name mentioned, has presented dis revised edition of de Bible to the Lime Kiln club. We do not open our meetings wid prayer, nor do we close by singin' de doxology, but nevertheless I am sure dis gift will be highly appreciated by all. Dar has bin considerable talk in dis club about dis revised edishun. Some of you hab got de idea dat purgatory has all been wiped out an' Heaben enlarged two or three times, an' I have heard sinners assert dat it didn't forbid lyin', stealin' an' passin' [illegible] money. My friends, you am sadly mistaken. [illegible]

"No change has bin made in regard to loafin' aroun' de streets. De loafer am considered just as mean an' low as ever he was, an' I want to add my belief dat he will grow meaner in public estimation all de time.

"De ten commandments am all down in black widout change. Stealin' an' lyin' an' [illegible] an' runnin' 'bout nights am considered just as bad as ever.

Conkling and a Democratic Alliance.

The Chicago Times (independent democratic) shows clearly that there are no good reasons why Mr. Conkling should enter into a democratic alliance. It says:

As his resignation threw the senate into the control of the opposition, so his return would not restore it from that control, but would certainly establish it there. He is already committed irrevocably to an attitude of opposition to the administration, and in supporting him his friends commit themselves to the same attitude.

The Land Bill.

LONDON, June 27.—It is understood it was decided at the cabinet meeting yesterday to ask the house of commons to concede Tuesday's, Wednesday's and Friday's sessions every week to the committee on the land bill. Contingency was discussed of taking even further steps in case this additional time not being sufficient to get the bill out of the House by the [illegible] of July.

Gail Hamilton has written a lively article for the North American narrating her experience with the [illegible] which for a time flourished in Boston at the expense of the depositors. The magazine prints also an elaborate reply on the subject from the pen of a keen Boston lawyer who does not take a sentimental view of banking.

THE DISASTER IN MEXICO.

Two Hundred and Seven persons Crushed or Burned to Death—A Damper on Railroad Enterprise.

[illegible] Never in the history of this place has so frightful a casualty [illegible] and its occurrence it is feared may still further prejudice the popular mind against railway enterprises. The Morelos road was [illegible] built by government subsidies and is entirely the work of Mexican engineers. It was first opened to the public on the 18th inst. In addition to the loss of life already reported it appears that the engineer and fireman were scalded to death.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1881.

MISCHIEF FOR IDLE HANDS.

Having secured reduction in the hours of work in many lines of manufacture and industry, the New York trades unions now present a new demand. A Saturday half-holiday is claimed as a necessity for "recreation and rational amusement." Employers are asked to shut up their shops and factories at noon on Saturdays but they are not expected to make any reduction for the half day in the matter of wages. A Saturday afternoon holiday is an agreeable thing and it may be profitably as well as pleasantly employed; and so might four days in the week, but the man or woman whose daily bread must be earned by daily toil, and this is the lot of the bulk of mankind, cannot afford to devote to recreation and amusement, necessary and important as they are, one-twelfth of the week's work time. The Sunday vacation is general throughout the United States and affords time abundant for relaxation and rest. Any person in health can work industriously ten hours for six days of the week, rest properly on Sunday—utter idleness is not proper rest—and be better off physically at the end of the year than if not engaged in any work. No man or woman who thus labors and who by such labor is able to earn the food they eat and the clothes they wear, needs sympathy. In this appeal for "short days" and holidays, the unions are working against the true interests of working people. No sane man will claim that a company of workmen can accomplish as much in five and a half days as in six. No man who gives the matter a moment's thought and is unprejudiced will expect employers to pay as much for five and a half days' work as for six. Even if the demand for a Saturday half-holiday is granted, wages will soon be adjusted to the reduction in time, and the working men and women will be the losers. They will simply spend one-twelfth of their time, besides Sunday, in idleness or sports at their own expense. They cannot afford it. Besides, there would be the additional temptation and opportunity to squander the week's wages. This is a "progressive age," and sociology now we suppose has attained the rank of a science. But still there are things that never can grow obsolete, with all our modern improvements;—and it yet remains as true as ever it was that "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do." Sociology is a fine science, no doubt; but this and sundry other rather old-fashioned truths it will hardly supersede so long as human nature prevails among men. People who clamor for "more time for mental improvement and recreation" pretty usually seek such "improvement" and "recreation" in billiard saloons, variety theaters, beer gardens, and often in unnamable places; and they harm themselves more by a day and night's "improvement" and "recreation" of this sort than they would by steady work for a year six days in the week and twelve hours a day.

FRENCH AFFAIRS.

A Paris correspondent undertakes to tell just what is meant by the "Scrutin de Liste," of which the French cable dispatches have had so much to say. It was a measure proposed by Gambetta, and simply provided for an increase of the members of the chamber of deputies, in accordance with increase of population, and was therefore analagous to our legislative apportionment bills. It was claimed by Gambetta that the measure was in the spirit of the republic and against the old monarchical system. No doubt this is true, as there has been no apportionment, no new allotment or distribution of members of the chamber, since the republic began. The senate defeated the measure, and hence it appears that the real animus of the rejection was the determination of the monarchists to defeat further popular representation. Alone the monarchists could not have defeated it; but they were joined by a large number of pronounced republicans of the more radical sort, who had no other purpose than that of humiliating and weakening the constantly growing power of Gambetta, whom they hate rather more than they love the republic. Gambetta's position is an anomalous one. He is, in effect, the speaker of the chamber, holding a position similar to that held by the speaker of our house of representatives; but while our speaker has no power of any sort, except to enforce parliamentary rules, he originates measures, and in his anomalous political and official character resembles the British prime minister. It may be said that Gambetta is the real head of the government, wielding much greater power than President Grevy, and being infinitely more influential with the people. It is declared by his enemies that it is his purpose to have himself made dictator, and that now is the time to clip the wings of his ambition. Hence the extreme republicans join with the monarchists in defeating his measures and putting him down. Frequently in politics these extremes meet, and at all times it is but a step from one to the other. The "Scrutin de Liste" is certainly a plain republican measure, and in appearance as remote as possible from the methods of a dictatorship; and the senate in rejecting it has declared war not only against Gambetta but against republican methods, if not against the republic itself. There is soon to be an appeal to the people; and if the republic is to be upheld the elections can hardly fail to sustain this measure which the senate has rejected. It is evident that the republic is not out of danger yet, or at least that the monarchists do not despair of overthrowing it. No greater calamity could happen to Europe than the overthrow of republican government in France. A nation free and prosperous, and holding so prominent and influential a position in Europe, is daily by its influence undermining monarchical governments and systems of absolutism. If Gambetta falls on so plain a republican proposition as that of increasing and adjusting popular representation in the popular branch of the legislature, it would seem that the republic itself must either go down with him or soon follow him. The monarchists and red republicans can not be permitted to defeat proper extension of popular representation, in accord with republican methods and institutions, if the republic itself is to stand.

Foreign journals do sometimes get clear views of American politics. A citizen of Portland, now in London, sends us a copy of the Pall Mall Gazette, which talks with intelligence and point about the Conkling business. It says: "Mr. Conkling has played himself out of politics. He never, to do him justice, appeared to be a statesman, and now he has ceased to be even a 'boss.' With the influence of Mr. Conkling disappears also the chances of the whole Grant faction, of which he has been the standard-bearer." There is keenness of perception and accuracy, too, in this further remark: "Mr. Conkling's friends attribute his failure to the efforts of the administration; and no doubt, as they were directed by Mr. Blaine, they were not probably of as scrupulous a kind as reformers would wish. But to set a 'boss' to beat a 'boss' is not a bad plan for the nonce; and no one will regret that Mr. Conkling has been defeated even though his own weapons have been used against him."

It has been pithily said of Jefferson Davis' book that it is the work of a man who has not even now sufficient discernment to read backwards the signs of the times which other men could read forwards to their present status, more than twenty years ago. Such a book is tedious, superfluous, useless. One thing it shows, namely, that the war of the rebellion from the confederate standpoint, is not to go down to history. In the years and generations to come the history of it will be read and known from the national standpoint only. This perhaps is because it was so irrational from the confederate standpoint, both in its causes and objects. Even the south now sees this and votes Jefferson Davis, who attempts to justify it, a tedious old bore, who can't see what everybody else sees—that it was a piece of great good fortune that the confederacy failed and that slavery fell with it.

The way they tried to hustle Prof. Robertson Smith in the Scottish Presbytery may be seen from the argument of Mr. McTavish, a prominent member, who was satisfied with the authority of the book of confession, which declares, he said, that "God is the author of the Bible, and that the style of it is God's own." "So," he continued, "when Professor Smith declared that there were defects in the literary style of some portions of the Bible, he must either mean that the Bible is not God's Word or that God did not understand how to write good Hebrew?" And this "argument" prevailed.

Somebody has made a strong point on Bradley, the $2000 fellow of the New York legislature, by fishing the following "personal" out of the Olean (N. Y.) Press, his home paper, of June 6th: "Our member from Olean is home, and tells us his constituents may expect to hear something startling soon." As Bradley swears that the bribery took place on June 8th, the most charitable construction of the above paragraph is that his prophetic soul warned him that he was going to be bribed three or four days before the occurrence.

There is, indeed, little or no room to doubt that the new czar, after a severe struggle in his own mind with all manner of advisers, has resolved to stand upon the ancient ways. He will refuse reforms and fight the discontented as "hidden rebels." If the czar would abandon the cause of despots he could easily show how assassination could be prevented by showing it to be useless. But he shuts down the safety valve with a clang and drives on. And one of these days something will explode, again.

Yesterday we wrote that old Bob Toombs had "lived till his flame lacked oil"—the metaphor being from the supreme poet, of course. But the compositor wanted to make it as literal and intelligible as possible, so he made it read that old Bob had lived "till his plane lacked oil." Doubtless the compositor in his artlessness and simplicity wondered why blatant Bob didn't proceed to oil it, and "stop the racket."

Mr. Nathan Appleton, who returned to New York from Paris a few days since, having gone over to attend the first meeting of the Panama canal company, says De Lesseps has not only formed the company, but has obtained subscriptions amounting to $60,000,000, of which $15,000,000 has been paid in. The purchase of the Panama railroad, he says, was a part of the scheme of De Lesseps from the beginning.

Governor Foster is trying the "reversible English" business in his Ohio campaign. The temperance question is uppermost in the Ohio mind, and Foster's effort is to get the total abstinence crowd to think that he isn't a drinking man, and the other crowd to imagine that he is one of the boys. This keeps the festive Charley pretty busy.

General Beauregard is busy writing up a history of the war from a southern standpoint. If he devotes himself to the military history of the confederacy exclusively, his book may not be a bad one. But if he goes into its political history his book will probably be as barren and worthless as that of Jefferson Davis.

On the 16th of June Hamilton Disston of Philadelphia closed a contract which probably makes him the largest individual land owner in the world. He has purchased from the state of Florida 4,000,000 acres of land, the largest tract ever bought by a private individual in any country.

Associate Justice Clifford has much improved, so far as physical health is concerned, since he returned to his home in Maine. His memory is still defective, and he gives no sign of preparing to resign his seat in the United States supreme court.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1881.

CITY.

LOST LAD.—Jimmy, a little 8-year-old son of Mr. James Hackney, one of the proprietors of the New York restaurant, wandered away from his home Sunday evening, since which time nothing has been seen or heard of the truant. The boy was last seen at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. He was in company with another lad at the time. The watchman on the wharf at the foot of Washington street saw Jimmy playing near the edge of the dock, and fearing he might fall in and drown, sent both the boys away. Since then no trace of the lad has been discovered. Diligent but unavailing search has been made by the half distracted parents of the boy. The police have also been looking for him in vain. It is thought the truant might have fallen into the water after the watchman went away, and drowned. The family know of no reason why he should thus absent himself, and fear that he has met with some terrible accident or death. The boy has light complexion, with a contusion on the eye from a recent [illegible]. He wore a Scotch suit with a light scarf, light [illegible] hat and a pair of shoes. Any information concerning his whereabouts will be most gladly received by his father and mother.

LAND LEAGUE MEETING.—An enthusiastic meeting of the Portland branch of the land league was held in Redmen's hall on Sunday, June 26th, President M. Phelan in the chair. The meeting opened with a song by the glee club. Speeches were made by R. J. Pitt, B. O'Harra, P. Maloney and others as to the welfare of the league. The [illegible] beautiful ballad called "Erin is my Home" was sung by Mrs. [illegible], and the "Wearing of the Green," new version, by [illegible]. [illegible] the amount of $17 was received from [illegible]. Mr. McDonald, a [illegible] and a collection was taken up for his benefit which amounted to $13 70. A vote was tendered [illegible] and the meeting adjourned.

REPORTED DYING.—Sunday evening the report [illegible] that Gen. M. V. Brown, [illegible], was lying at Lower Soda in a dying condition. Softening of the brain had set in, and death was pronounced inevitable. Mrs. Brown was at the bedside of her husband, and word was sent to Mrs. Stewart, at Albany, the mother of Mrs. Brown, for her to hasten to [illegible] Lower Soda. Mr. Brown went to that point several weeks ago in hopes of benefiting his health. If not already dead, his death may be anticipated any time.

HORSES FOR THREE.—The members of Columbian Engine Co. No. 3, do not propose to be behind any of the other companies of the department in any respect. Even in the matter of having horses to pull the engine to and from fires, they do not intend to be distanced. The company has just purchased a very large span of brown horses which will hereafter respond to the tap of the bell. These horses were purchased from a farmer in Benton county, by the company for the handsome sum of $500. They look as if they will make the "machine" sing.

STATE FAIR.—The state fair will open at the grounds near Salem to-morrow (the 29th), and will continue for 10 days, ending July 8th. Persons who came down in the express train this morning report a number on the grounds. There are as many or more running horses in training as were ever present before. Other grades of fine stock are also well represented. More attention seems to be paid to the exhibition of blooded sheep than ever before. Agricultural products are necessarily scarce, owing to the season of the year.

INDECENT ASSAULT.—Last evening about 5:30 o'clock, a man named J. E. Sternberger, made an indecent assault on a Mrs. Edward Fallon at the American Exchange Hotel, and attempted to outrage her. Her screams attracted the attention of her husband, who came rushing into the apartment. Fallon made a savage assault on Sternberger with a large bowie knife, and cut him severely in the wrist. Sternberger was arrested at once and lodged in the city jail. The case will be investigated to-day.

CRAVING CHARITY.—There is now in the city a poor woman—a Mrs. G. Benedict—who is asking for pecuniary assistance of the charitably inclined. She says she lives at Albany, has two little girls and a sick husband, that she is in destitute circumstances, and desires to raise sufficient means to enable her to move to Portland, where she hopes to be able to obtain a livelihood by washing.

OFFICERS ELECTED.—The following officers have been elected for Court Mount Hood 6160, Ancient Order of Foresters, to serve for the ensuing term: W. C. Tanner, R. Bateman, S. C. Ranney, J. C. Roberts, Rec. Sec., Edw. Elwell; Sen. Woodward, J. D. Lee; Jun. Woodward, F. Michell; F. Sec., E. Martin, Sr.; Treas., George C. Sears; Court Physician, E. P. Frazer, M. D.

NEW BOAT.—A new four-oared cedar shell made by Ingate Ball for the Willamette Rowing Club will be on exhibition to the public at Ball's boat house foot of Stark street, from 10 A. M., to 7 P. M., to-day. This is the first boat of the kind ever built in Portland, and is equal in finish and every excellence to the best eastern work. She is named for the river—Willamette.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.—Those wishing to witness the exercises this evening should secure reserved seats as early as possible, as there will be a crowded house. The class of '81 is the largest ever graduated from the High school, except one, and the exercises give promise of unusual interest. Reserved seats can be had at music store of D. W. Prentice & Co.

FINE SHEEP.—J. Pat Smith left yesterday morning on the outgoing steamer for San Francisco. Arriving there he will proceed directly to Sacramento where he has fifty head of Merino sheep. These sheep have been imported directly from Vermont, and are intended for Pat's ranch in Eastern Oregon. They will arrive here in a few weeks.

SPECIAL TRAIN.—The Western Oregon Railroad Co. will run a special train between Portland and Corvallis on Sunday, July 3d. The train will leave Corvallis at 10 A. M., and arrive at Portland early in the afternoon of the same day. Half-fare tickets good from June 29th to July 8th. Full particulars will be found in another column.

GRAND LODGE.—The first session of the grand lodge A. O. U. W., of Oregon and Washington, will take place at Salem on Wednesday, the 13th of July. Half-fare rates have been obtained for representatives to the grand lodge and their wives on all the transportation lines leading to Salem.

ARM FRACTURED.—Last evening Mrs. John Dillis slipped and fell at the corner of Sixth and Montgomery streets. She struck heavily on her left arm and fractured the bone. Dr. J. T. Wells was called and promptly adjusted the fractured bones.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.—A man named Edward Willson was arrested last evening, charged with the larceny of some clothing from the Globe Hotel and lodged in jail. Judge Stearns will interview the culprit to-day.

BEING DECORATED.—In honor of the graduating exercises of the Portland High school, which will be held this evening at New Market Theater, the stage is being very gaily decked with flowers and evergreens.

ARRIVED.—The steamship State arrived at Astoria yesterday at 10 A. M., and reached her wharf here last evening about 8 o'clock. She brought a large list of passengers and a full freight.

FOR THE NORTH.—The steamer California will sail from this port for Sitka and northern ports on Thursday morning at 3 o'clock, June 30th.

SUSPENDED.—Work on the new government dredge on the east side has been temporarily suspended. The suspension is due to the fact that the iron work is not yet ready.

G. A. R. BALL.—The Brass Band Contest at the Pavilion under the auspices of Messrs. Mellis Bros. & Co. is assuming immense proportions, and promises to be the most noteworthy affair ever attempted in this locality. Quite a number of bands have entered, and it is expected that the Young Ladies' Band from Albany will also compete and endeavor to wrest the laurels for "blowing" from the sterner sex. The Grand Army of the Republic have appointed a committee consisting of 50 of their members to manage the Grand Ball which takes place after the contest. These gentlemen will also have charge of the floor during the entire evening, thus assuring an evening pleasant in every particular. Tickets are to be obtained only of Messrs. Mellis Bros. & Co., at their stores, free of charge, and they repeat their announcement that nobody will be admitted to the Pavilion on the night of the 5th without a ticket, under any circumstances.

BRIEF NOTES.

Vacation.

The "State" has arrived.

The State Fair will open to-morrow.

State circuit court will convene [illegible].

New Market theater will be packed this evening.

Closing exercises of the Portland High school this evening.

Another school of your sex ended, and over 2000 children are very happy.

One week from yesterday and all good, patriotic citizens will celebrate.

"River slowly falling." It is settled there will be no high water this season.

From appearances the new steamer City of Dundee will soon be ready for the trial trip.

There was no state circuit court yesterday. Judge Stott held a special term yesterday at St. Helens.

The Wyman & "Yakie" combination sailed yesterday morning on the Oregon bound for San Francisco.

THE OREGONIAN will contain full and complete reports of the State Fair each day during its continuance.

Mr. Jarrett, the proprietor of the "[illegible]" on the [illegible] combination, came up the Columbia river over 30 years ago on the vessel, the Sea Gull. He was then a very young man. He thinks Portland has improved since then.

THE VARIOUS COMMITTEES.

The following are the various committees appointed to make all necessary arrangements for the coming celebration of the Fourth of July:

On [illegible]: [illegible] W. Barrett [illegible].

On fireworks: Al Zeller and Charles Hodge.

On invitations: W. S. Newbury and Mayor Thompson.

On printing: A. W. Waters, L. A. Chapman and [illegible].

Committee on finance: Wm. Wadhams, Chas. Hodge, Benj. L. Norden, Henry Hewett, Geo. C. Sears, R. Z. Holmes, E. J. Jeffery, Wm. [illegible], A. A. Cohen, J. B. Kellogg, D. H. Murphy, E. S. Northrup, Levi Knott and Dav. Raffety.

Committee on music: C. T. Belcher, F. G. Abell and C. R. Hoffman.

Committee to secure orator: Al Zeller and H. Y. Thompson.

On programme: H. Y. Thompson, Al. Zeller, P. W. D. Hardenberg, G. W. [illegible] and A. Le Gratole.

A NOTE FROM MR. SELLWOOD.

To the Editor of the Oregonian.

As there seems to be some misunderstanding in regard to the arrangements made for the excursion to Catalpha Grove last Saturday, I beg leave to state that the arrangement made with the captain and clerk of the steamer Washington, was that she should leave Portland on the return for the excursionists at 3 P. M., reach the grove between 5 and 6, and get home at East Portland at about 8 o'clock. This was the agreement, taking for granted that those who managed the boat knew what she was capable of doing, but for reasons best known to themselves, they failed to meet their engagement. No consent would have been given to any arrangement looking to a later return home than 8 o'clock.

Hoping that this statement will show that everything was done by the committee to make the excursion in every way a pleasant one—regretting exceedingly the delays for which the committee were in no way responsible, and which to some extent were unavoidable, and thanking those persons who so kindly and efficiently assisted in embarking and disembarking the passengers, and in contributing so much to the enjoyment of the trip, I beg leave to subscribe myself, J. W. S.

AMUSEMENTS.

All holders of tickets for the firemen's concert are informed that Mr. D. W. Prentice will be ready at his store to endorse their coupons for such seats as they may select on and after Wednesday morning, June 29th, at 8:30 o'clock.

The Chicago Times says of Widow Bedott: "The Widow Bedott" was brought out in an attractive fashion at Haverly's Fourteenth Street theater last Monday night. The play, as is generally known, is based upon the once famous 'Widow Bedott Papers.' In its dramatization, all of the fun of the Papers has been preserved, and the result is a budget of colloquial oddities equal to anything in the way of merriment now on the stage. The fun is evolved principally from the widow's peculiarities, and the unctuously developed self-esteem of Elder Sniffles. Mr. Bishop fills the role effectively and brings down the house continuously. James C. Burrows, who personated the meek and sleek Elder Shadrach Sniffles is a good artist, and makes the most of his lines and points."

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Dayton, Hall & Lamberson have a lot of fruit presses.

Read P. E. Brigham's ad and give him a call, you will be sure to buy some of those lovely goods at such tempting prices.

E. J. Northrup & Co. will have the Westinghouse threshing engine and separators on exhibition at the state fair. See full particulars in the advertising columns.

Messrs. Champlin & [illegible], the popular shoe and boot dealers, have on hand one of the largest and most fashionable assortments of boots, shoes and gaiters which can be found in the city today. So extensive is their stock that every taste can be suited. Prices, too, can be found that cannot fail to please. This firm cordially invite the public to call and examine their large stock. No trouble to show goods.

AUCTION SALES.

To-morrow, A. B. Richardson will hold a regular auction sale at the corner of Pine and First streets.

Pell's consignment of dry goods has been removed to the corner of second and Morrison streets. Auction will be held each day at 2 and 8 P. M.

Gilman & Co. will hold an auction sale to-day at their rooms, at 10 A. M. They will sell a lot of very choice and desirable real estate. Also a large assortment of household furniture.

REV. J. A. GRAY TAKES MR. HALLENBECK'S PLACE.

Beginning of the Third Week of the Revival Services—Large Crowds and Increasing Interest—Many Anxious Souls Seeking the Kingdom.

Yesterday began the third week of the revival services conducted by Mr. Hallenbeck. The interest seems constantly increasing, and the crowd in attendance is only limited by the size of the audience room in which the meeting is held. Last night every one of the 500 chairs in the Y. M. C. A. hall was promptly filled, and many stood who were unable to find seats.

Mr. Hallenbeck grows upon his hearers. Those who have heard him continually like him best. Those who hear him for the first time are somewhat disappointed, as his method of presenting truth are so different from those ordinarily used. But he soon disarms all criticism. His earnestness and sincerity readily win a place in the hearts of all. No stranger ever before came to Portland and so readily won the confidence and esteem and earnest support of all with whom he has come in contact as Mr. Hallenbeck has done.

THE NOON MEETING

Was very largely attended. Mr. Hallenbeck was unusually happy in his opening remarks. The requests for prayer were read as usual. The after meeting was very spirited, the time being promptly filled with short, terse and pointed testimonies and addresses. Among those who spoke were several of the young converts. In response to an invitation several arose and asked the prayers of Christians.

The ladies' meeting [illegible] was also very largely attended, and [illegible] was very interesting.

The song service [illegible] the hour was full of power. During the services Mrs. [illegible] "Ninety and nine," and Mesdames Bird and [illegible] sang. [illegible] Prof. Bailey of [illegible] offered [illegible] prayer, and Rev. J. A. Gray read part of the [illegible] chapter of Luke's Gospel containing the account of Christ healing the boy possessed of a devil, at the request of the boy's father. Mr. Hallenbeck was [illegible] to speak owing to a return of his trouble [illegible], but his place was well filled by the pastor of the Baptist church, Rev. J. A. Gray, who spoke from Luke ix:42, "And as he was yet a coming, the devil threw him down." Here was a poor fellow, in his weakness and want, and wretchedness, possessed by an unclean spirit, staggering towards Christ, and the devil caught him and threw him down. It was just like the unspeakable meanness of the devil. The devil felt that that was a crisis when Christ came into the world, and so he put forth special power. But he is just as mean to-day. He never sees a soul starting towards Christ but he tries to throw him down.

Look at the various ways he takes to do this. One of the most common is to watch every soul, and when he sees one convinced of sin he at once says, "Not now, some time it will be well to attend to these things, but not now." And the longer he can put that time into the future the better he is suited. What says God, and rises up? "Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation." Again the devil throws a great many down by suggesting that some other way will do most as well. "There is no use in rising for prayer." "There is no use of making any noise or public profession about it." These won't save you, but God requires a public confession. Then the devil throws down a great many interested souls by saying: "You won't hold out." You can't hold out, but God can make you to hold out. The word of the Omnipotent God is pledged that every trusting soul shall be rescued in every time of peril. Napoleon sent his fleet out into the midst of the storm to its destruction, and then walks raging in his impotence along the shore watching the destruction. But on Genesaret, amidst the storm, one cry, "Lord! save!" and our God commanded, "Peace be still!" and the waves and storm obeyed Him. That's the One in whom we trust. He keeps us. To some the devil says: "It's too late." The sinner never gets beyond the circle of God's love. Christ came to seek and save that which was lost. No son ever gets beyond a mother's love. All others may lose faith in him, but she, never. It is possible for a mother to forget, but God, never.

THE INQUIRY MEETING

was very large and Christian workers found many new cases of special interest.

Services to-day as usual at 12 o'clock, 4 o'clock and 7:45.

THE THIRD WARD BALLOT BOX.

The following is submitted to us for publication, and to the public for their consideration.

PORTLAND, Or., June 27, 1881.

Our attention having been called to an editorial in last evening's News, containing base insinuations against Mr. P. Taylor, one of the judges of the third ward, we desire to make the following statement as a matter of justice.

After the canvass of votes was completed, the ballots, together with the poll books and tally sheets, were deposited in the ballot box; the box was then locked and properly sealed, and in addition the wax with which it was sealed was covered over with impressions of Mr. Geo. A. Steel's private seal. We then requested Mr. Taylor to take charge of the ballot box, Mr. Church retaining the key thereto.

A. R. CHURCH,
G. A. STEEL.

State of Oregon, county of Multnomah, ss. I, [illegible] Durham, being duly sworn, say that I am auditor and clerk of the city of Portland and that as such officer I received from the hands of Peter Taylor one of the judges of the election for the third ward the ballot box used in said ward, and I further swear that said ballot box was delivered to me at about 9 o'clock on the morning of June [illegible], 1881 and that the ballot box was carefully sealed by placing paper over the keyhole and over the aperture in the top of the box through which the ballots are passed; and that said paper was securely fastened with sealing wax and stamped with the letter "S." And I further swear that the key to said ballot box was delivered to me by Mr. A. R. Church (one of the judges of election in said ward), at 4:27 o'clock P. M. of said [illegible] of June, 1881. [illegible] DURHAM.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 25th day of June, 1881. SAML. R. LEWIS, Notary Public.

OLD SOL ENCIRCLED.

[illegible], June 27, 1881.

To the Editor of the OREGONIAN:

While noticing [illegible] of the comet that is now visible during the time the clouds will permit its being seen, I have not seen any mention in THE OREGONIAN of a phenomenon which appeared to the inhabitants of the southern vicinity of this place, near the mouth of the [illegible] river, last Saturday from 7 to [illegible] o'clock A. M. It occurred to the sun and consisted of two strange and large rainbows which, both being very [illegible], the outer one much darker than the inner one, and they were both joined together and [illegible] from the center [illegible] of the sun [illegible]. Just beneath the [illegible] [illegible] the base of which [illegible] the [illegible] at [illegible] the apex was joined to the lower part of the [illegible]. Then again there were two large [illegible] in [illegible] circle [illegible] the sun [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] of the circle were three bright stars, one at the lower part, one in the east and one in the west [illegible] [illegible] wise from the sun, which [illegible] with the sun [illegible] to divide the circle into four nearly equal [illegible]. And again, to the east of this circle, [illegible] was another [illegible] circle, [illegible] all the hues of the rainbow, and [illegible] from the lower part of the [illegible] the [illegible] of the sun, all of which together was a sight [illegible] to be pictured by a pen.

Lance, Duthold & Hoesner, of [illegible] creek, have made a final cleanup, doing very well, considering the season. The ground paid them $50 a day for the time there was water. The company will soon commence preparations for next season's work and expect to make a more favorable run than ever.

A Leland correspondent, under date of the 15th, says: The Josephine Mining Company of Portland, of which John Salmon is superintendent, is putting up one of Wm. Salmon's late improved quartz mills on Tom East creek, about two miles from the Esther quartz mill. The mill will be ready to run in about three weeks. The company will first test the ledge between Coyote and Grave creeks, known as the Hopkins, Ford & Buck ledge. Mr. Salmon is putting the mill in the building formerly used by Hopkins & Co. for their arastra, and will be run with water power.

Willie Lewis, a lad 15 years old, son of Geo. Lewis of Althouse, Josephine county, died suddenly of a congestive chill last week near Jacksonville. He had been troubled with ague symptoms for a few days, but nothing serious was apprehended. Just before his decease he was found in his room in an unconscious condition, but revived sufficiently upon restoratives being applied to state his condition. When the physician arrived the boy was past human succor, however, and quietly sank away.

A young man named Walter Rose, was drowned while attempting to ford the Yakima near Selah, one day last week. The body was found several hundred yards below the ford.

The residence of W. E. Harkleroad of Goldendale, was burned to the ground on the night of the 19th. It had been recently built and was unoccupied at the time of the disaster. Loss about $1603, insurance, $600.

The three-masted schooner nearing completion in Hall Bros' yard at Port Blakely is being built for Dolbeer & Carson, of San Francisco, and will be launched in about two weeks. She will be called the William Carson, after a member of the firm to which she belongs.

The proposition to levy a special tax of $12,000 in Seattle to build new schoolhouses was voted down by the people of that district. The day was quite stormy, and but 161 votes were polled, 24 for and 137 against the proposition. Quite a number of ladies voted on the question.

J. B. McGowan, a carpenter well known throughout Klickitat, was found dead in his bed in Ellensburg, on last Friday. He had been in his usual good health, but on the evening previous to his death he complained of having a headache. Mr. McGown leaves a son, who is now in the insane asylum, having been taken there from Yakima county a year or so ago.

The firm of Phelps & Wadleigh, well known in the cattle raising and butchering business, both in eastern and western Washington for the past eleven years, has been dissolved, the latter purchasing the remnant of their heretofore large herd, and the former to engage in mining. The last severe winter was very disastrous to the firm. Out of about 12,000 head it is estimated that not one-third survive.

A christian church is soon to be built at Yakima City. Its dimensions will be 30x50 feet, with walls 18 feet high. Inside however the ceiling will be arched into the roof, rendering it about twenty feet in height. When finished, with a gallery, it will furnish seating room for 300 worshipers. In front, and on the left side facing the front the spire will be placed. This is 52 feet in height, and will receive an ornamental finish.

The silver ledge recently discovered at Orcas island is creating considerable excitement. Jerome Robinson, of Fern[illegible], one of the locators, sold out his interest to Mr. Pinkney for $300. J. D. Smith, of Seattle, has become largely interested, and is materially assisting the locators to test the richness of the ledge, and if everything proves satisfactory, we look for important developments in that section of country ere long.

A meeting of the board of trustees of the Klickitat Agricultural Society, was held on last Saturday at Goldendale. The board has determined to call a meeting of the society early in the month of October, for the purpose of exhibiting stock, agricultural products, etc. A committee was appointed to select grounds with a view to purchasing the same by the society for fair grounds. The committee has three or four pieces in view near town.

Mr. Markham and his young son, aged about nine years, were attempting to ford the Natches at its mouth on the 19th inst., and both were carried over the riffle into the Yakima and drowned. The body of the boy was found on the day following, but at last accounts that of the father had not been recovered. Mr. Markham leaves a wife and four children in limited circumstances. This makes six persons who have been drowned in that place while attempting to pass the river.

After nearly two months' work, A. O. Benjamin has succeeded in getting upon the Northern Pacific track at New Tacoma, engine No. 2, which, with its tender and one car, were buried in the sand at the mouth of Puyallup river. It was a hard job and a trying one, but he has hung to it faithfully, and has finally succeeded where others have failed. His contract calls for the recovery of the other cars, which, though a much easier job, will require at least two weeks' more work.

The Indians of the Swinomish reservation, immediately opposite LaConner, have nearly completed a dyke by which over 600 acres of tide land will be reclaimed, at an expense to the government of $400. All of the labor was done by Indians, by direction of Mr. O'Kane, resident agent at Tulalip, the work being superintended by Mr. Baldwin, the reservation farmer. This land—if permissible—would readily command an annual rental of $10 an acre, which would make the reservation a source of revenue instead of expense to the government.

LaConner Mail: An advance delegation of the Kansas colony, headed by Mr. McPherson, with eight or nine others, went up to Samish on the steamer last Tuesday to thoroughly investigate the advantages of the Olympia marsh. This section of country it appears drains into Samish bay, through what is known as Joe Leary's slough. Should the colony locate there they will probably make Samish island their business point. They were accompanied by Dr. J. S. Lewis, who, with his family, has taken up his residence at Dingwall's Landing at that place.

Port Townsend Argus: Since the French bark Notre Dame Auxiliatrice was quarantined here a couple of weeks ago, with a mild case of small-pox on board, everybody has been indulging fears of the spreading of the dreaded contagion, and on Wednesday, when it became known that Mr. Bryant, mail agent on the Annie Stewart, had been ordered into quarantine by Health Officer Minor, on account of alarming symptoms, there was quite an excitement over it. It is altogether probable that the vigilance of the health officer, together with the natural healthfulness of our climate, will prove a safeguard against serious consequences.

REVISION NOTES.

The Westcott and Hort revision of the original Greek New Testament, which has long been expected by scholars and which was consulted, probably in the proofs, by the revisers of the English text, will soon be published by Harper & Brothers. The same firm will also issue an edition of this Greek version with the revised English version printed on opposite pages.

The readings and renderings preferred by the American committee of revision have been incorporated into the text of the New Testament by Dr. Roswell D. Hitchcock, for Fords, Howard & Hulbert, who will issue it under the general title of "The American Version," and in form corresponding to the Oxford long primer octavo. With two different revised editions in the field, old-fashioned bible readers will be strengthened in their prejudice against the new version.

After all it appears that the revising committee of the New Testament in substituting "love" for "charity" have only returned to an old rendering. In the edition printed by Robert Barker of London, in 1630 "love" appears throughout the thirteenth chapter of the first of Corinthians, thus: "Though I speak with the tongues of men and angels and have not love, I am as sounding brasse or a tinckling cymbal." Again in the fourth verse, "Love suffereth long," &c., and in the thirteenth, "And now abideth faith, hope and love, even these three; but the chiefest of these is love."

NOTES AND NEWS.

Lorillard turns out any number of plugs, but not for the turf. Many persons like his tobacco, and like to back his horses.

Ex-Governor Edwin D. Morgan has paid $450,000 for the Cheeseborough farm of thirty-nine acres, located on Broadway, between 157th and 162d streets, New York city.

Senator David Davis is said to own more land in Illinois than any other resident of that state. A Bloomington correspondent estimates his wealth at $5,000,000. He pays $18,000 in taxes yearly.

The population of New South Wales is estimated at 750,000, being an increase of 250,000 during the last ten years. The population of New Zealand is 500,[illegible]. The population of Tasmania is 116,[illegible].

As soon as the Freedmen's Bank building at Washington can be sold at the price asked [illegible] a final dividend will be declared, making the total of all dividends paid to depositors sixty per cent of their deposits.

Not much Encouragement.

[Chicago Times.]

There is not much encouragement for the Bourbons in Mr. [illegible]'s remark that "if the democratic party act wisely it will carry every doubtful state this fall." In the first place there are no "doubtful states" worth mentioning, except Virginia, and even if the democrats save that there will be nothing to brag of in the achievement. The most disheartening part of the ex-senator's prediction is the condition accompanying it. Only by acting wisely, he admits, can the party arrest the process of decomposition which has already depressed it in New York, Connecticut and Indiana; yet it is notorious that the party never acts wisely, and that whenever it has in late years secured a qualified success in local northern elections the result has been reached in spite of its own blunders or because of those of the other party.

SQUIBS AND TRIFLES.

A satirical innkeeper in Wytheville, Virginia, advertises his house as "the only second class hotel in the world."

The revised New Testament is not popular in England. John Bull will have his proverbs, even if they are in the Bible.

"Colossus of Roads" is the latest pet name for Jay Gould. Is it because he [illegible] that in all of stock operations called "straddles"?

What It Is all About.

The New York [illegible] the disgraceful and sickening [illegible] now going on at Albany, first asks itself and then promptly answers this significant question:

What is this whole quarrel about? About the president's exercise of his right to make certain nominations without consulting the senators of the respective states—nominations they considered objectionable. And because the president had done this and the senate was going to confirm such a nomination, Mr. Conkling resigned.
